(9) THE DASHBOARD AND TRADING PLATFORM

(9.1) Each Client is allowed only a single Client Profile, and all Services availed by the Client must be managed within the Dashboard.

(9.2) The number of demo accounts for each Client Profile might be restricted, based on either the cumulative initial balance of the products purchased by the Client or other criteria. Unless specifically permitted by the Company, Clients are not allowed to transfer initial balance amounts between different products or to merge them in any way. Furthermore, transferring or combining the Clients performance, service parameters, data, or any other related information across different products is also not permitted.

(9.3) Access to the Dashboard and Trading Platform is secured with login credentials, which the Client is prohibited from disclosing or sharing with any third party. The Client assumes full responsibility for all actions taken through their Dashboard or on the Trading Platform. The Company bears no responsibility of any liability, and the Client has no right to compensation, for any improper use of the Dashboard, Trading Platform, or any aspect of the Services. Moreover, the Company is not accountable for any negative consequences effects on the Client resulting from such misuse, if any misuse occurs for any reasons on the part of the Client.

(9.4) The Client acknowledges that the Services may not be available around the clock, particularly with respect to maintenance, upgrades, or any other reasons. In particular, the Company bears no responsibility, and the Client is not entitled to any compensation, for the unavailability of the Dashboard or Trading Platform and for damage or loss of any data or other content that Client uploads, transfers or saves through the Dashboard or Trading Platform.

(9.5) The Client may at any time request the cancellation of the Dashboard data by sending an e-mail to support@citytradersimperium.com. In such a case, the Client is not entitled to any refund of the fees already paid or costs otherwise incurred.

(9.6) Different market conditions and liquidity can cause spreads to vary accordingly. At high volatility events, such as during high-impact economic releases, the spreads can widen. At the end of each day, between 00:00 and 02:00 platform time, the banks move vast amounts of orders from the current day to the following day while there is less liquidity. This may cause spreads to be significantly increased. Therefore, it is advisable to widen stop losses during these times to avoid unwanted execution of nearby orders due to technicalities.

(9.7) The commission is fixed at $2.5 per lot per side for FX, Commodities, and $0.25 per lot per side for indices. Crypto will have no commissions charged.

(9.8) Sometimes, the markets can gap significantly. Any orders placed at prices with no quotes will be filled at the next available price. This may result in opening the trade at a less favourable price in cases of Market Orders or Stop Orders. Slippage can occur at any time but is mostly relevant during periods of high volatility when market orders are executed. This can also happen when a large market order is executed, but there isn't enough volume at the chosen price to execute the trade at the current market price. Slippage can also occur when there is a delay between the trade being ordered and when it's completed. Therefore, Company does not guarantee to pay the reward for trades where significant slippages occur.
